na

I am not a fan of calculus or any math, however, Joseph helped guide me through it with office hours and course work. Although it sucks to do 10 hours of calc work a week, it helps because you don't have to study so much for examinations. Also, I'm glad Joseph structured the class so 57 is the lowest passing grade, it took a lot of pressure off me towards the end of the class. The only negative I have to offer is that sometimes he can cover material too quickly, I understand that we have limited time for winter classes but it's difficult to grasp multiple concepts in one 2 hour class time (especially when you're not great at math). Also, I found that oftentimes the examples we went over in class were much much easier than anything we got for homework/quizzes/tests which I guess is expected but it often left me confused and searching for outside help since I had no frame of reference. Other than that though, he's definitely a very good teacher who does his best to help everyone.

Given that the course was online and during winter session, I think that this course was very well planned out and everything was explained well so I knew what was expected of me.

Professor Nakao was a great teacher and I would take any class he teaches! Although winter session (especially taking calculus) was daunting at first, he went at a good pace and I was able to follow and understand the concepts. He actually made calculus enjoyable (probably because I understood the topics this time). He genuinely cares about his students and always made sure everyone understood the topic before moving to the next. His office hours were extremely helpful and what would have taken me a day to understand a topic, he could explain it in ~15mins and I wouldn't have any more troubles. Professor Nakao was very up-front about what to expect on exams and quizzes and I like that about him. Rate: 10/10 must recommend!

This instructor taught the course well.

This class was great for me. There was a lot of homework but I never needed to study for quizzes or exams. The lectures were very clear and easy to follow.
